WSP Web Site Has a New Address

The Washington State Patrol's Internet Web site address has changed to www.wsp.wa.gov. The address change was made to comply with the state government Web domain standards and to provide a more accessible, user-friendly Web address for the general public.

In conjunction with the Web address change, the WSP Information Technology Division collaborated with the Department of Information Services to migrate the State Patrol Internet site to a new Web server. The high-performance server features an upgraded operating system and additional security.

An information page placed at the former address (www.wa.gov/wsp/) will direct visitors to the new WSP Web site location.
